you're never alone

The high levels of mobility and collaboration within the company allows us to combine expertise from across our business units to achieve remarkable feats of engineering. We encourage you to forge your own path within VINCI Energies: through ongoing mentoring and training we can support you to achieve your ambition and reach your full potential. With ample training and career opportunities, what matters is your motivation and passion for the job!

We are fiercely committed to the best practices in ethics, vigilance and human rights: we fight all forms of discrimination in hiring, in workplace relations and in the career paths of our employees. We place the highest standard of ethics at the forefront of our customer relationships and our values remain consistent around the world.
